PENSION [illegible]

Roosevelt's Inaugural Ball Will Be Held in the Building.

HOUSE HAS SPOKEN

RESOLUTION AROUSED CONSIDERABLE OPPOSITION BUT FINALLY PASSED — SENATE PASSED OMNIBUS CLAIMS BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The house adopted the senate resolutions providing, among other things for the holding of the inaugural ball in the Pension building. On a viva voce vote the resolution was lost but a roll call enabled those favorable to the Pension building proposition to muster their strength and pass it. Speaker Cannon and several of the Republican leaders recorded themselves as opposed to the idea of the employment of the Pension building for the purpose of the inaugural ball.

When the house convened today Mr. Van Voorhis of Ohio, from the committee on appropriations, reported the pension appropriation bill. At the same time Mr. Underwood of Alabama submitted the views of the minority in reference to it.

On District Matters.

The house then went into committee of the whole for the consideration of measures relating to the District of Columbia.

For the third time during the session the resolution granting temporary occupancy of a portion of the monument lot for an American railway appliance exposition in connection with the meeting of the International Railway congress to be held in this city was called up. Favorable action on it previously was prevented by the opposition of Mr. Mann of Illinois. Today the resolution was passed in spite of Mr. Mann's objections.

Back to Inaugural.

The attention of the house then was directed again to the resolution providing for the inaugural ceremonies. Opposition again developed to the proposition to hold the inaugural ball in the Pension office.

Mr. Cowherd of Missouri criticised the people of Washington for lack of civic

SENATE PASSES OMNIBUS BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—After the passage of the omnibus claims bill and a few minor measures and fixing January 28 for the delivery of addresses in memory of the late Senator Hoar, the senate devoted today to the statehood bill. Mr. Morgan spoke for two hours against the bill.

When the senate convened Mr. Mallory presented the minority report of the merchant marine commission. It was referred to the committee on commerce.

A resolution was passed providing for the printing of 5,000 copies of the proceedings at hearings had before the commission and the same number of copies of the minority report.

Omnibus Bill Passed.

The omnibus claims bill was then considered.

Several committee amendments were adopted and the bill was passed. It carried direct appropriations amounting to about $2,850,000.

Other bills were passed as follows:

Authorizing the secretary of the interior to acquire for the government by exchange of public lands, the ownership of the private lands within certain public parks in the state of California.

For the relief of wandering American born Indians of Rocky Boys band, Montana.

On Statehood Bill.

At 2 p. m. the statehood bill was laid before the senate and Mr. Morgan spoke in opposition to the bill.

Mr. Morgan spoke particularly of the character of the population of New Mexico and Indian Territory. He declared that the framers of the constitution were of the white race and that it was not the intention that Mexicans, Indians, negroes and half-breeds should be brought into citizenship. He said that if Arizona and New Mexico were admitted into the union this class of citizenship would control the elections and said bribes and whisky might control them.

At 4:05 p. m. the senate went into executive session and at 4:23 adjourned.

P. B. STEWART IS TO TAKE MESSAGE

DENVER, Jan. 9.—The vote of the Colorado presidential electors was cast today for Theodore Roosevelt for president and for Charles W. Fairbanks for vice president. The meeting of the electors was held in the office of the secretary of state, being called to order at 12 noon. All those elected were present, save Simon Guggenheim, who is detained in New York by important business. David Moffat was made chairman of the electors and Perry Rider was made secretary. Richard Broad, Jr., of Golden was selected to act as proxy for Mr. Guggenheim. Philip Stewart was selected as messenger to carry the result to Washington.

The inauguration will be in a simple manner. There will, by the request of the governor-elect, be no military display.

CONTEST ON SENATORS BORN AND HEALY IS CLOSE UPON HEELS OF INAUGURATION

Special to the Gazette.

DENVER, Jan. 9.—There will not be room in the house chamber tomorrow to accommodate the senators and representatives and the spectators who will throng there to witness the ceremony. Tickets limited to the capacity of the house have already been issued and hundreds of people will clamor in vain for them. Each of the state officers and the justices of the two higher courts has been given 15 tickets; senators and representatives get five each. Over 500 spectators' tickets have been issued. The floor of the house will seat 300 people and the galleries 500. Mrs. Adams and her friends will occupy one of the boxes in the house and wives of the other officials the other box.

May Proceed With Work.

Governor-elect Alva Adams will be formally seated tomorrow. Arrangements have all been made for the inauguration and other business of the capital will be laid aside for the event. It is unlikely that there will be an afternoon session of the house and senate. There is a great volume of business to be transacted, however, and those who wish to dispose of it promptly may be in the majority. If this proves true both branches of the legislature will get down to business tomorrow afternoon.

The first business of importance in the senate will be the fight to unseat Born and Healey. That these two senators will lose their seats is reasonably certain. That was a part of the deal between the leaders. The Republicans have their plans all laid to carry out the plan.

Went Over Yesterday.

The contest over the unseating of Born and Healey was slated for this afternoon but at a caucus of the Republican senators it was decided to postpone action until Jesse F. McDonald, lieutenant governor-elect, is seated. It was thought best not to bring the matter up while Lieut. Governor Haggott was the senate's presiding officer. At any rate this is the way an El Paso county member of the senate tipped off the situation.

There is every evidence that the straight Republicans and the Wolcott Republicans are again working in complete harmony and it is almost a certainty that Born and Healy are doomed to lose their seats not later than Wednesday.

Back in the Fold.

The return to the fold of Senators Campbell and DeLong has inspired good feeling among the Republicans and bitter disappointment among the Democrats. A prominent Republican said in the lobby of the Brown Palace hotel tonight that Campbell and DeLong were always "good conscientious fellows" but that they got off on the wrong foot. They now seem penitent and are said to be lined up right.

The house held no session today and adjourned out of respect to the memory of S. F. White, representative from Las Animas, Prowers and Baca counties, who died of acute stomach trouble at his home at Holly Saturday night. Resolutions deploring the death and expressing sympathy for the members of his family will be passed at the next regular session of the house.

Appointments Confirmed.

The action of the senate today in confirming the appointment of Luther M. Goddard of Denver and George W. Bailey of Fort Collins as supreme court justices caused such a jubilant feeling among the Republicans that nothing else was done by the senate. After the confirmation the senate took a recess until 3:30. At that time another recess was taken until 4:30. Again at 4:30 as soon as the president of the senate pounded the gavel at the end of the second recess Senator Cornforth moved an adjournment until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The motion was carried and no business was transacted.

Between the recesses the Republican senators were in caucus laying their plans to unseat Senators Born and Healey.

PEABODY [illegible]

Governor Tells Citizens of the State That He Will Contest

HAS HONEST VOTES

AND WILL CONTINUE FIGHT TO ERADICATE ANARCHY FROM THE CONFINES OF THE STATE OF COLORADO.

Special to the Gazette.

DENVER, Jan. 9.—In a statement to the public issued tonight Governor Peabody says:

"To the people of Colorado:—For two years as chief executive of the state I have endeavored to enforce the laws, maintain good order and establish prosperity for Colorado. Yet for some reason, a bitter and unfair political war has been waged against me.

"Investigation of the conduct of the recent election has convinced me that I have been fairly re-elected governor of this state and I am satisfied that the election returns as first published are not truthful.

Will Start Contest.

"It is my purpose at once to inaugurate a contest so that all the facts about the election may be presented fully and fairly to the legislature and to the public.

"The frauds practiced against me were so manifest that it was first proposed to have them thoroughly investigated before the publishing of the returns by the legislature and the claim that this method of investigation as originally contemplated by the legislature is unconstitutional, is not well founded.

"Yet this claim became so widespread that this method was abandoned so that even unjust criticism could not be made against the loyalty to the constitution and to the best interests of the state of those whose desires are for the uplifting and betterment of the commonwealth.

"We have now adopted the very line of action which those seeking to conceal the truth regarding the frauds and outrages of the recent election have emphatically declared to be constitutional. All I desire is the truth. That the people shall know.

"The only manner in which to reveal it is to continue a searching examination of all phases of the recent frauds and election debauchery until the public ascertain the contents of every ballot box and all the circumstances surrounding the accomplishment of the spurious results obtained.

Must Not Submit.

"I appeal to the people of Colorado to await the result without prejudice and then to support with public opinion whichever one of the gubernatorial candidates has received a majority of the honest votes. I refuse to believe that the best interests of Colorado can be subserved by quietly submitting to an alleged adverse majority which even a partial investigation has already disclosed is but a myth—a travesty upon a republican form of government, an insult to the intelligence of the public and a brazen, open and desperate attack upon the perpetuity of our institutions and the purity of our elective franchise. For myself, I desire no office tainted with fraud.

"The anarchy of the ballot box stuffer is as far reaching as the anarchy of the dynamiter and I shall continue my fight to eradicate both from the confines of Colorado.

"Respectfully,
"JAMES H. PEABODY."

CLARK OF WYOMING RETURNS TO SENATE

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 9.—At a joint caucus of the Republican members of the house and senate Clarence D. Clark was unanimously chosen to receive the Republican nomination for the United States senate to succeed himself. As the legislature is overwhelmingly Republican the caucus nomination is the equivalent of an election. There was no other name even suggested in opposition to Senator Clark's candidacy.

TWO INDICTMENTS ARE KNOCKED OUT

JUDGE MULLINS QUASHES TWO OF FOUR EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGES PENDING AGAINST ORMAN'S AUDITOR.

Special to the Gazette.

DENVER, Jan. 9.—Judge John I. Mullins today sustained the motion to quash two of the indictments against Charles W. Crouter, former state auditor, charged with embezzlement of public funds. There still remain two indictments against Crouter on similar charges in which the district attorney has been ordered to file a bill setting forth fully the allegations against the defendant. In the indictments quashed Crouter was alleged to have appropriated to his own use moneys paid him as state treasurer by the Catalpa Mining company under the act providing for an annual state corporation license tax. It was set forth in the motion to quash by Charles Post, Milton Smith and James D. Merwin, defendant's attorneys, that the act had been held unconstitutional and that therefore the indictments would not hold good, which position was upheld by Judge Mullins.

[illegible] DRAINAGE PLANS

Mine Owners Will Discuss Big Drainage Projects Next Saturday

MEET IN THIS CITY

HEAVY EXPENSE WILL BE INVOLVED BUT DEMONSTRATED INCREASING RICHNESS WITH DEPTH WILL JUSTIFY COST.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 9.—At the meeting of the Mine Owners and Operators association which takes place at Colorado Springs next Saturday, January 14, plans will be submitted for three drainage tunnels. One would start at an elevation of 8,250 feet above sea level and run for a distance of 12,500 feet, lowering the water level 500 feet below the present El Paso tunnel level. A second will start at an elevation of 8,050 feet running 14,500 feet and lowering the water 730 feet below the present tunnel level. The third will start at an elevation of 7,600 feet, have a length of 18,500 feet and will lower the water level 1,200 feet below the present level.

Means Heavy Cost.

These three propositions are to cost from $20 to $30 per foot to drive and will take from one and a half to three years to complete. The last plan will cut the district 1,600 feet below the 1,500 foot level of the American Eagle, which is the deepest shaft in the district.

Mining men have for several months seen the feasibility and the necessity of another and deeper tunnel and are now making their plans so that the work can be completed without having to suspend operations in any of their lower levels. Whatever plan is adopted the work will be conducted along similar lines to the El Paso tunnel which means that it will be started from several points and when once under headway will give employment to from 100 to 150 miners.

Richer With Depth.

The necessity of another tunnel is easily seen when it is taken into consideration that there are now 22 shafts in the district that exceed a depth of 1,000 feet and in nearly every instance richer ore shoots are being encountered at this depth than at any point above.

It will be remembered by readers of the Gazette that some three weeks ago a full account of a new drainage tunnel project was published exclusively in these columns. This is now verified by well known mine owners and added to not only as to one proposition but three, one of which projects will be adopted and gotten under way before very long.

WORK FOR TWO THOUSAND.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The shut down of the Illinois Steel company's works at South Chicago ended today. Two thousand men who have been idle for four weeks were given work.

WILL SEND GERMAN SHIP FOR WOUNDED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 9.—The Hamburg American Steamship line notified the Russian authorities that it is sending one of its largest ships from Kiaochou to Port Arthur with nurses and medicines, and that it is prepared to take to Kiaochou all the wounded possible.

[illegible] DECISIONS [illegible]

COURT OF APPEALS HOLDS THAT COMPANIES MAY LEGALLY EXCHANGE CAPITAL STOCK FOR PROPERTY.

Special to the Gazette.

DENVER, Jan. 9.—The opening of the January term of the court of appeals today marked the announcement of a number of important decisions. Chief among them is an opinion by Justice Gunter, Justices Maxwell and Thomson concurring, holding that a mining company can exchange its capital stock for property—bond and lease, and in the absence of showing fraud, the stock will be held to be full paid. In rendering this opinion the judgment of the district court was reversed.

The case was that of Mayor Robert W. Speer and Joseph Warner who held a bond and lease on the Silver Ledge group of mines near Silverton about six years ago.

Another important decision was that in the case of 37 residents of the city of Pueblo, in which the court, through an opinion by Judge Maxwell, held that claims for damages must be brought by individuals. In 1897 the city of Pueblo built a ditch, causing damage to the properties of the 37 persons. The claimants entered into an agreement with the city by which one of their number was to bring suit for $2,716 which was the amount claimed by all claimants. The district court of Pueblo county held that as the claims of the various persons whose properties were damaged varied they should bring individual suits. This decision was affirmed by the court of appeals.

The case of former county clerk, Julius Aichele, in which he was fined $300 and sentenced to the county jail by District Judge Johnson for contempt in refusing to strike certain false names from the registration lists two years ago will soon come up for argument, the case being advanced on the docket.

WITTE [illegible]

Looms Up As the Most Important Factor in Interior Affairs.

OF RUSSIAN EMPIRE

SVIATOPOLK-MIRSKY LIKELY TO GO DOWN UNDER PRESSURE THAT IS UPON HIM.—WITTE HOLDS STRONG HAND.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 9.—M. Witte as Interior Minister Sviatopolk-Mirsky's successor and holding a position in the councils of Emperor Nicholas approaching General Loris Melikoff's during the trying Nihilistic days of Alexander II, may be one of the startling results of the contest waging over the question of interior reforms.

The popular idea has been that Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky and M. Witte were acting in harmony in this matter but the Associated Press learns from the highest source that exactly the opposite is the fact. They can more properly be described as rivals and opponents than as friends.

Issue Soon Drawn.

Despite the difficulty of Minister Sviatopolk-Mirsky's role since he assumed office owing to the powerful influences arrayed against him he has been able to hold his own with continued marks of the emperor's confidence and approval. With M. Witte's advent upon the scene, however, the situation changed. Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky stuck manfully beside his guns defending the policy on which he accepted office but he found M. Witte antagonizing the very principles which he considered vital thus rallying his opponents on his side and the prince found the ground slipping from under him. M. Witte prevailed in the matter of the imperial manifesto, the hazy terms of which did not meet with Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky's views. According to the latter's friends the contest was resumed immediately upon the convening of the committee of ministers the prince finding M. Witte opposed to the proposition to invite in a consultative capacity the various classes interested in the reforms.

Playing Cards Well.

The prince's friends believe M. Witte at heart would go farther than the former but that it suits his present purpose to adopt a more conservative attitude until all the reins of power are firmly in his own hands. Under the circumstances the prince, whose health is really greatly impaired and who is a plain spoken man, unschooled in the art of intrigue, feels himself unequal to the task of continuing the contest and has confided to his friends within 24 hours that he prefers to retire. Whether he has actually tendered his resignation the Associated Press is not in a position to say but that it may come any minute is certain.

MINER TANGLED IN SLACK CABLE

B. S. MASON, EMPLOYED ON GOLD SOVEREIGN, HAD A CLOSE CALL FOR HIS LIFE—KEPT HIS HEAD.

Special to the Gazette.

VICTOR, Jan. 9.—B. S. Mason, a miner employed on the Gold Sovereign property, became entangled in a slack cable early this morning and came very near being ground to death.

Mr. Mason, who was working on the night shift at a depth of 800 feet, had signalled for the cage to be lowered to his level but evidently either the engineer had misunderstood the signal bells or else the miner had made a mistake in giving them, the cage going on past the level, being stopped by the chairs. The cable immediately became slack and before Mason could extricate himself from the coils of the wire rope the cable had been tightened which carried Mason to the roof of the level grinding him against the timbers and solid rock.

Finally, in some unknown way he became disentangled from the rope but not before he had sustained a fracture of the left leg, was bruised from head to foot and had received internal injuries. However, still having his presence of mind he gave the signal and was hoisted to surface.

On arrival on top the engineer and pumpman immediately removed the injured man to the Red Cross hospital in this city where the fractures were reduced and at a late hour tonight the miner was getting along as well as could be expected with every chance in his favor of beating the game of death.

General Stoessel's First Inquiry As to Whereabouts of

KUROPATKIN'S MEN

LATTER PROMISED IN OCTOBER TO RELIEVE PORT ARTHUR SOON.—STOESSEL SAYS BALTIC FLEET IS USELESS NOW.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE THIRD JAPANESE ARMY AT PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 7 (Via Tientsin, Jan. 9). Captain Tsunoda, the Japanese staff officer, who was sent to Port Arthur to inform General Stoessel of the contents of the message of the emperor of Japan saying that the garrison should be treated with the greatest consideration, says:

Kuropatkin's Encouragement.

"General Stoessel remarked that he had last heard from General Kuropatkin, October 6, saying he would come to relieve Port Arthur soon. General Stoessel added that he had sent out Chinese spies who returned and reported that General Kuropatkin with a relieving army was at Kinchou, 20 miles north of Port Arthur. General Stoessel was plainly incredulous at my statement that General Kuropatkin had been defeated and driven back towards Mukden, so I produced maps, showed him the position of the two armies near the Shakhe river and gave him details of Kuropatkin's defeat with the loss of 50,000 to 60,000 men at which the Russian general expressed amazement and quickly remarked that he had been misled.

"General Stoessel then asked where the Baltic fleet was and I told him that some of the ships had not passed the cape of Good Hope.

"With a hopeless expression General Stoessel said:

"'Now that Port Arthur has fallen there is no use for the fleet coming any further.'

"I then asked General Stoessel what had caused the most damage to the garrison during the siege and he replied:

"'Your 11-inch howitzers. After they arrived our defense works became useless.'

"General Stoessel then pointed out that he and Admiral Alexieff had been through the Boxer trouble and had seen the work of the Japanese army. General Stoessel also said he had been associated with the Japanese generals, Yamaguchi and Fukushima, at that time and expressed the opinion that the Russians and Japanese had borne the lion's share of the work. Since then he had a high idea of the organization and fighting qualities of the Japanese army.

Real Cause of War.

"The real cause of the war was, in General Stoessel's opinion, the ignorance of the Russian people of the fighting qualities of the Japanese. The first attack on Port Arthur in February by the Japanese fleet was a tremendous surprise. The forts, he explained, were only partly garrisoned by two thousand troops.

"At this point General Stoessel said he had always opposed the scheme of Governor Sakharoff of Port Dalny in spending money in building up Port Dalny instead of finishing the defenses of Port Arthur. Sakharoff, who was an engineer officer, died of dysentery during the siege.

"Continuing General Stoessel praised the ingenuity, pluck and patience of the Japanese infantry and particularly in making siege parallels and trenches to the forts.

"Referring to the artillery General Stoessel said that at first he did not think the artillery practice good but he was soon compelled to recognize how good it was. General Kondratenko and a colonel of engineers (Irman), General Stoessel pointed out, were killed in North Kekwan fort by a Japanese shell just prior to the explosion of December 18. General Stoessel felt their loss greatly as Kondratenko was a clever engineer.

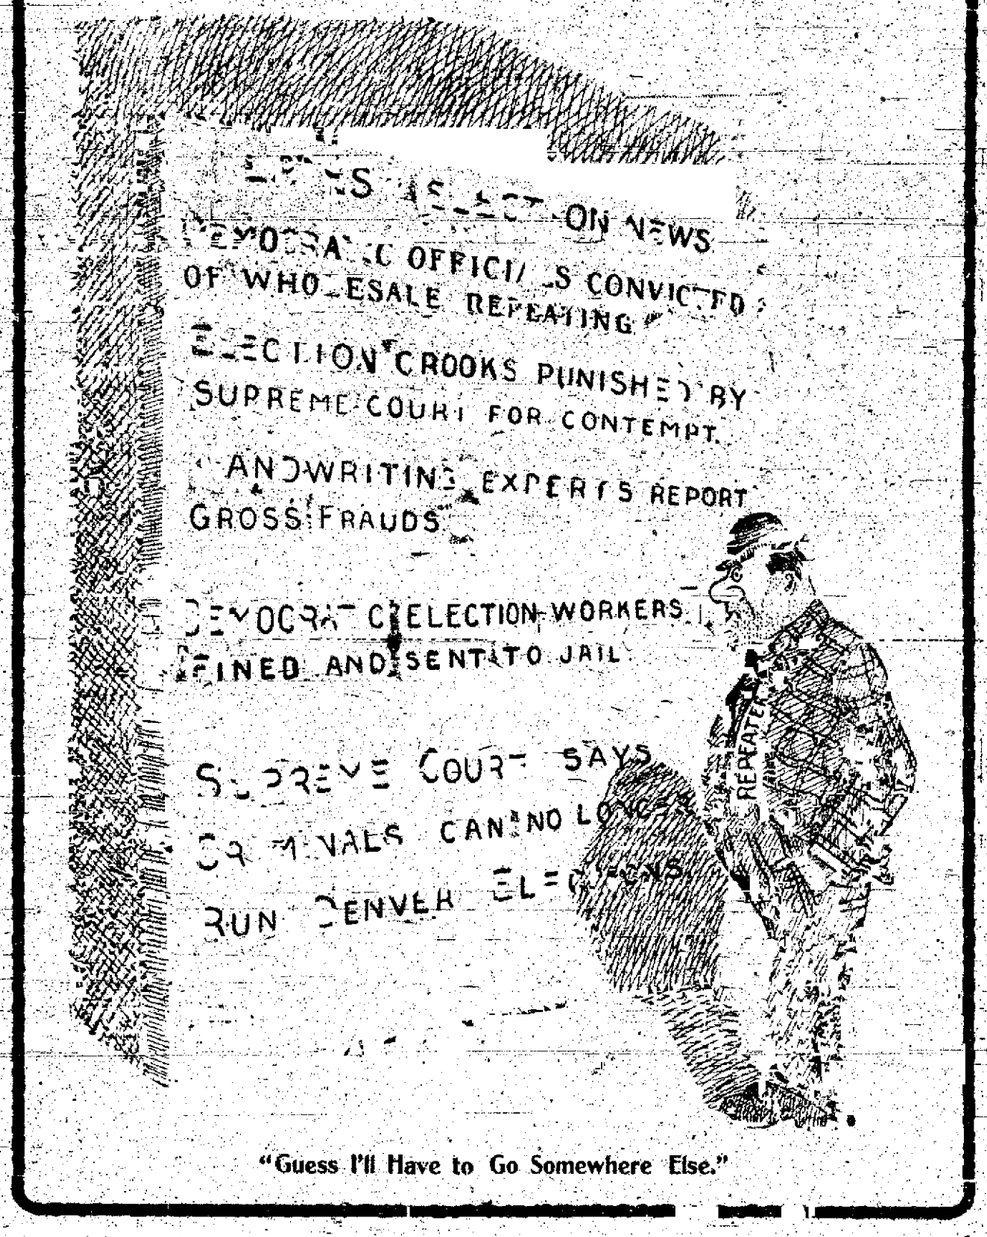

"General Stoessel further said he had served his emperor in three wars, and he had been thrice wounded, first in the Russo-Turkish war, second in the Boxer trouble and third at Port Arthur. Now he felt he had earned the right to return to Russia to live in his old age with his family. The general added that he was taking home with him five children of officers who had been killed during the siege.

"After his conference with General Nogi, General Stoessel expressed gratification at meeting so pleasant a gentleman. He had not expected the considerate treatment accorded to him.

LIVE STOCKMEN MEETING
SESSION OPENED

DENVER, Jan. 9.—The city tonight is filled to overflowing with delegates to the National Live Stock convention which opens in this city tomorrow and which will last through the greater part of the week. From present indications it will be one of the greatest as well as one of the most important gatherings of stockmen ever held in this country. There will be throughout the week meetings of numerous affiliated bodies, the Wool Growers leading off this morning with their fortieth annual meeting which was held in the Tabor Grand opera house.

After the annual reports of the officers had been read, a committee of seven was appointed to consider the proposed reorganization of the National Live Stock association with instructions to report to the general body of the Wool Growers' association at as early a date as possible.

The proposed reorganization is based upon the various branches of the live stock industry, each branch being considered as a unit, and the representation of that unit to be regarded as standing for its interests in the annual live stock conventions which have of late become somewhat unwieldy on account of the large number of delegates.

Each branch of the industry is to be controlled by a general committee of its own members, and the sole executive authority of the national organizations will be confined to a committee composed of one representative from each branch of the live stock industry.

During the afternoon session, the program included five-minute addresses on the condition of the sheep and wool industry in the various states and territories.

The speakers were E. S. Cosgney, Arizona; W. A. Lingham, Colorado; L. V. Olcese, California; M. Gwin, Idaho; J. E. Morse, Montana; S. Luna, New Mexico; P. L. Flanagan, Nevada; James Givin, Oregon; James Boyd, South Dakota; R. K. Nichols, Washington, and C. W. Barney, Wyoming. Other addresses on the program were:

"The Growth of Wool Manufacturing in America," John B. McPherson.

"The Outlook for Wool," J. Silberman.

"The Elimination of Sheep Scab," D. E. Salmon.

"What Makes Good Wool," Theodore Justice.

There is a sharp division between the cattlemen as to the advisability of allowing railroads and packers to have representation in the growing body of the association if the new plan of organization is carried through. President Frank J. Hagenbarth, president of the Live Stock association is strongly in favor of admitting them and he has a numerous following. Many western stockmen while not opposing the proposed reorganization, are against allowing either railroads or packers to have anything to say about the affairs of live stock men. They contend that the railroads working in conjunction with the packers have compelled them to sell their cattle at the lowest possible prices and they object to an alliance with either one of them.

A meeting of the cattlemen was held tonight at which the report of the board of managers was read. It related chiefly to the efforts made by the committee to secure legislation favorable to the cattle interests. The members were warned that the railroads would advance rates on cattle in the near future unless the cattlemen took active measures to prevent it.

The report of the committee was approved, and it was ordered to continue its work of safe-guarding the interests of the cattlemen.

ATTORNEY GENERAL WANTS
BEEF TRUST DISSOLVED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Attorney General Moody today presented his brief to the supreme court in the Beef Trust case.

Subsidiary Agreements.

In conclusion, Mr. Moody said:

The subsidiary agreements are as follows:

First—In the seventh paragraph of the petition it appears that the defendants have agreed upon this device: In pursuance of the conspiracy among themselves, their agents bid up the price of live stock at certain selected times to an abnormal point. This naturally induces the shipment from other states of live stock to the points where the price is bid up in quantities much larger than under normal conditions. Then, taking advantage of this congestion of the markets, they refrain from bidding against each other as purchasers of live stock, with the result that the producers and owners of the stock are forced to sell at ruinous prices. Thus the unlawful conspiracy to refrain from bidding against each other is made doubly profitable, and the great profits which come from the transaction in turn increase the power of the combination and tend to fasten upon the people a monopoly. The conspiracy in this case is ancillary to the conspiracy to refrain from bidding and to the creation of the monopoly which this whole case discloses.

Second—It is alleged in the eighth paragraph, that for the purpose of aiding in the raising, lowering and fixing and maintaining of uniform prices for fresh meat the defendants collusively restricted and curtailed shipments of meats to the various markets throughout the country. The word "collusively," fairly interpreted, means that they curtailed shipments by agreements with each other. Doubtless such transactions sometimes may be entirely legitimate. This consideration is recognized in the decree, which exempts from its prohibition the curtailing of shipments made in good faith to prevent the congestion of markets.

Third—In paragraph eight, when penalties are imposed against each other by defendants for all deviations from the prices fixed, which needs no special comment.

Suppress Competition.

Fourth—In paragraph eight, also, uniform rules for the giving of credits are agreed upon. This of itself might be harmless, but its purpose is supplementary to the main conspiracy stated in that paragraph, namely, the suppression of all competition among the defendants. They will not allow themselves even to compete for the term of credit which may be given to their respective customers. No purchaser may go from one to another of these defendants and obtain the advantage of a single day's delay in the shipment of his bill.

Fifth—The same purpose is behind the agreement alleged in the ninth paragraph of the petition, to make and impose uniform charges for cartage. The price of the meat is uniform; the terms of credit are uniform; even the rates of cartage are uniform; and all this comes about by the agreement of the parties, and is designed in the most effective way to prohibit in the minutest detail all possible competition in prices.

I have now discussed separately all the agreements and acts of the defendants which were complained of and enjoined by the decree of the court below. I have endeavored to show, with respect to each of them, that they relate to interstate commerce, and either restrain it or monopolize it within the meaning of the law. I should be unwilling, however, to rest the case here. There is a larger view of it to be taken than appears from the allegations in the petition considered separately.

pride and enough energy to build a hall where such functions could be held, but said it was not the proper thing for the Democrats at this time to express too pronounced views on the subject of where the ball should be held.

Says Autocracy Rules.

Mr. Baker of New York, said it was a preposterous proposition for the Republicans "who say they are the soldiers' friend" to delay action on their pension claims by giving up the pension building for a week or ten days. The city of Washington, he said, ought to commend itself to the czar of Russia, because it was where autocracy ruled. The beneficiaries of government improvements in Washington were not the people of the city "but those who own the land values which you (facing the Republican side) are making by your constant presents of public money."

Would Sin Once.

Declaring it would be discourteous to the president of the United States to shut the door in his face after all arrangements had been made for the presence of the governors of all the states and their wives and the various organizations which would participate in the inauguration, Mr. Gaines, of Tennessee said he favored the Pension building this time but gave notice that never again would he vote for the proposition.

Mr. Gaines continuing, said he favored the resolution because the president was trying to do right "and give teeth to our interstate commerce commission that will haul up the railroads that have been robbing the American people."

Was "With" Roosevelt.

He said he was "with" the president and did not care how long the teeth were that were put into the law. He commended the president also for "trying to unhorse the trusts."

The resolution was read for amendment, among the amendments adopted being one by Mr. Williams of Mississippi, requiring the inaugural committee to give bonds to restore to its former condition any public building or reservation used for inaugural purposes.

By yeas 54, noes 30, the resolution was laid aside with a recommendation that it pass, but when put on its passage in the house it once more had to run the gauntlet of criticism. Charles B. Landis of Indiana called attention to the danger of destruction by fire of the records of the pension office and had read a letter from the secretary of the interior on that subject.

Not on Party Line.

The house on a rising vote refused to pass the resolution but reconsidered when the yeas and nays were called, passing the resolution finally by 136 to 90. Political lines were not drawn in the voting.

Resolutions were passed calling on the secretary of commerce and labor to instruct the director of the census to furnish to the house certain reports on which the census bureau passed its recent cotton ginning reports and authorizing the admission as cadets at West Point of Louis Bogran of Honduras and Frutos Tomas Plaza of Ecuador.

A bill was passed providing for the construction and maintenance of roads, the establishment and maintenance of schools and the care and support of insane persons in Alaska.

At 4:23 p. m. the house adjourned until tomorrow.

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS LEARN OF PORT ARTHUR'S FALL

HUANCHAN, Jan. 9.—Via Mukden.—The news of the fall of Port Arthur was received here first unofficially from the Japanese, who let loose numerous paper kites bearing letters and triumphal inscriptions. These kites were picked up by Russian soldiers long before the telegraph gave them the news. The army received the announcement doggedly, regret being expressed that the troops had been unable to relieve the garrison, but confidence is felt that ultimately the Russians will be able to push back the Japanese and reach the fortress from the north.

Russian artillery is steadily pounding the section of the Japanese line west of Sinchinpu and about the villages of Baitoshan and Sintingun.

The Japanese are using balloons and searchlights in efforts to locate Russian batteries which have been causing them great annoyance.

The past two days the Japanese have made two unsuccessful attempts to break through the Russian advance lines.

General Stakelburg, who has been ill, has recovered sufficiently to return to the front.

The weather has been warm and springlike for some days and overcoats have been discarded by many.

AMERICAN OFFICERS REPORT ON THE WAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Officers recently returned from the theater of war in Manchuria have given the war department interesting information regarding the fighting in that part of the world. DENVER COUNTY GIVES 4,741
REPUBLICAN MAJORITY

REPUBLICANS HAVE RECEIVED CERTIFICATES OF ELECTION AND WILL GO INTO COURT TO OUST DEMOCRATS.

DENVER, Jan. 9.—The election commission today issued certificates of election to all of the Republican county officers declared elected by the supreme court. Tomorrow they will appear before Judge Ben B. Lindsey in the county court and ask that the oath of office be administered to them. Their bonds will then be filed and the Republicans will demand the offices.

The Democratic incumbents have given notice that they will not evacuate unless the supreme court renders a decision that the May election was illegal.

Republican claiments will attempt to oust them by quo warranto in the supreme court. The Democrats will answer that they hold by virtue of the May election and the controversy will then be up to the claimants to show that the May election while apparently regular was illegal, and that these offices should legally be filled by the November election.

Should the Republicans gain the offices, the only Democratic county official will be one of the justices. The Republicans in the November election nominated candidates for but two justices. The ticket was placed in the field under the statute and ignoring the city charter.

GOOD CHANCE FOR DARK HORSE IN CALIFORNIA.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 9.—The California legislature will proceed tomorrow to elect a successor to Thomas Bard in the United States senate. There are several prominent candidates for the honor and politicians acknowledge tonight that the situation is so badly tangled that predictions would be simply guess work. It was claimed today that only 61 of the 120 votes had been pledged and the balance were unknown quantities. Senator Bard is a candidate to succeed himself and his supporters claim over 30 votes. Frank Flint of Southern California makes a similar claim. The other active candidates are Arthur Fisk, George A. Knight and Henry Oxnard. The position of U. S. Grant, Jr., as a candidate is regarded as uncertain. He declared today that he would not enter the race but his friends may present his name nevertheless.

RECIPROCITY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—President Roosevelt had another conference today regarding pending legislation. He consulted Representatives Eteh of Wisconsin and Townsend of Michigan, both members of the house committee on interstate commerce regarding proposed legislation respecting railroad freight rates. Both representatives are in favor of affirmative action on the subject by congress at the present session. They told the president that people they represented wanted the thing definite and wanted it done soon. Any legislation enacted they urged, must be effective in curing the evils complained of and not merely of a nominal character.

THE EMPIRE THEATER.

The performance this week at the Empire possesses all of the qualifications of a first class show and evidently that was the unanimous judgment of the patrons in attendance at yesterday's performances.

Owing to the sudden illness of Mr. Mack of the team of Crimmins and Mack, they canceled their appearance and the management was fortunate enough to secure Reouble Sims, the tramp comedian and cartoonist, and his appearance was a great hit.

Ims & Murphy in their black face act never failed of an enthusiastic encore and will be great favorites.

Miss Beatrice Marmaduke is called the Empire favorite and she will deserve the title. She is singing the illustrated song again this week and her sweet voice wins the applause of everyone.

The Savoys are one of the strongest teams showing in vaudeville and will bring many patrons to the house. Their act furnishes genuine fun and there is nothing tiresome or offensive in any of it. The acrobatic work is exceptional and the boxing bout is a revelation to most men who imagine a woman can't box in the approved manner.

Miss Lulu Thies was received well and the moving pictures which are excellent closed a very pleasant and popular entertainment.

ANDY ADAMS SAW THRILLING BULL FIGHT

MAKES COMMENTS ON UNIQUE METHODS OF TEXANS IN CELEBRATING CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEARS.

"I've seen men in all sorts of danger but the nerve of a Mexican bull fighter I saw last week beats anything that I can remember," said Andy Adams yesterday upon his return from Texas, where he has been collecting material for a new novel.

"I crossed the river from San Antonio to attend the fight. The first bull that was let loose was a terror. He was mad when he came out, and the red flags did not cool him off. He charged two men who were holding a red banner and upset one of them. Turning, he made for the prostrate man, who seeing that he could not get away, lay as near to the earth as possible and allowed the bull to stand over him and paw the ground alongside his body. Had he raised as much as two inches he would have been tossed high over the heads of the people. The other matadors attracted the bull's attention and freed the man from his dangerous situation. The crowd went mad and tossed silver dollars, cigars, cigarettes and scarfs to the hero of the minute.

"A bull fight is certainly a cruel amusement but it is also a pretty sight. The people are dressed in all sorts of gay colors, the matadors are brilliantly clothed and the general effect is one of holiday rejoicing. The men who do the killing are skillful and have to be accurate to save themselves. When the killer decides to dispatch the animal he drives it to a point in front of the governor's stand and either waits for the bull to charge him or walks up and drives a sword, three feet long, into its heart. The one I saw adopted the latter method.

"The horses used in the ring are old crowbait and when they are wounded are put out of suffering at once.

"Up here we celebrate Christmas and New Years day separately but in Texas they begin ten days before December 25, and don't finish until all the moisture in the country is absorbed."

Mr. Adams has not begun the writing of his new book but has collected a great deal of material.

HE HAD FAITH

And it Was Justified.

"In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that I am cured as sound as a dollar. I used about three of the fifty cent packages. I was going to write you, but was holding up to see if the piles would give me any further trouble. I feel no signs of the piles and believe I am cured entirely. I had faith in Pyramid Pile Cure at the start, and stuck right to the treatment. You can refer anyone to me you like. I can soon tell what Pyramid Pile Cure has done for me. Wishing you much success, I remain, J. C. Kinkaid, Mgr., for Fleischman & Co., Agency at Knoxville, Tenn."

It is a well recognized fact that the best advertising an article can have, is that which is known as "word of mouth"; this rightfully carries more weight than all the claims which can be set forth. It follows that Mr. Kinkaid, with his wide acquaintance, will largely promote the sale and use of Pyramid Pile Cure because—and here is the vital point—he knows whereof he speaks, and not only advocates its use but does so with enthusiasm; this is not to be wondered at, and in point of fact can anyone, after reading his letter, doubt that this remedy cures?

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for the low price of fifty cents a package; it is in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts affected, and does its work quickly and painlessly; there is no other remedy "just as good."

A little book describing the causes and cure of piles is published by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and will be sent free to any address for the asking.

THINKS JAPS HAVE EYE ON INDO-CHINA

PARIS, Jan. 10.—The Echo De Paris prints documents alleged to have been prepared by the Japanese General Kodma, formerly viceroy of Formosa, showing that Japan has a plan of campaign for the invasion of French Indo-China. The document, which is of extraordinary length, gives the reasons for first turning toward Manchuria and, after crippling Russia there, attacking the smaller French forces farther south preparing meanwhile a powerful navy to meet reinforcements that might be sent from Russia or France.

INCREASED DIVIDENDS

VALUE OF DRAINAGE TUNNEL IN CRIPPLE CREEK SHOWN BY INCREASED OUTPUT OF MINES.

Total dividends to date of the mines in the Cripple Creek district amount to more than $14,000,000, and the year 1905 will see a great increase in this amount.

The Gold King, which has been unable to produce for over a year on account of water in the levels, has again issued dividends to the amount of $10,000. The Dillon company issued $4,000 to its shareholders last month. The Portland distributed $180,000 at the first of the year and Stratton's Independence added $125,000 to the total. Since the El Paso drainage tunnel has been in operation, the mines throughout the area of drainage have greatly increased their outputs.

MT. CUTLER VICTIM'S CLOTHES IN LAKE IN STRATTON PARK

STATEMENT MADE IN LETTER TO SHERIFF GRIMES BY ANONYMOUS WRITER—OTHER ASSERTIONS.

"If there are any citizens who know anything regarding the Cutler mountain murder mystery, I would appreciate it if they would call at this office, or even let me know and I shall call upon them," remarked Sheriff O. P. Grimes to a representative of the Gazette last evening.

"We have received a number of anonymous letters on the matter," continued the officer, "and here is one that has just been delivered. Now if the writer of that letter really knows anything about it, I believe it is his duty to come forward and tell us, and not spend time writing such letters."

The letter referred to was mailed in this city at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning and was received by the sheriff in the afternoon. It reads:

"In Stratton park, in the largest lake, can be found the jewelry and clothes of the woman who was murdered on Mount Cutler. Also you can find the instruments there with which a criminal operation was performed and evidence that such was the case. You know the man. The other man who did the shooting will soon be in the City of Mexico and the revolver is in the lake. You know him."

WILL PREVENT PNEUMONIA

An Old Prescription Used by Physicians in Their Practice.

I wish to add my professional testimony to the value of your English preparation, known as Acker's English Remedy. In several instances after I have tried my utmost to give relief, I have prescribed your remedy, and it has acted almost like a miracle, not only relieving, but permanently curing every one of the patients. I endorse the above preparation as one of the most valuable additions to the practice of medicine.—C. F. Smith, M. D. (The most successful physician of Olean, N. Y.)

A great deal of nonsense is printed and spoken about patent medicines.

An old and well-known patent medicine is simply a prescription given by an experienced physician and then tested, perfected and proved by many years' use.

That's what Dr. Acker's English Remedy is. You get your money's worth of pure, healing material.

It cures your cough, strengthens your overtaxed lungs, sweeps away the danger of pneumonia and of consumption.

All druggists sell it on a guarantee of cure. Bottles 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

Any reader of the Gazette sending name and address to W. H. Hooker & Co., 24 Ellicott St., Buffalo, N. Y., will receive a free sample bottle of Acker's English Remedy by return mail. Write for it today.

Caught Cold? Got a Little Cough? If you could look down into your lungs you'd find them inflamed, with little sores forming.

If you were to analyze the air you breathe, you would find many deadly germs—pneumonia and consumption germs.

The healthy lungs cast off these germs with ease; the irritated lungs cannot do it.

To soothe your lungs, to stop your cough, to cast off, or force the lungs to cast off, all evil germs—that is what Acker's English Remedy does.

PATRIOTISM FIRST

Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Other States Had Inaugural.

FOLK SAYS THAT WHEN CITIZENS BECOME PUBLIC OFFICERS PARTISANSHIP SHOULD CEASE.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Jan. 9.—Charles S. Deneen was inaugurated today as the twenty-third governor of Illinois. The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Ricks of the Illinois supreme court in the presence of both houses of the legislature, members of the supreme court and hundreds of others prominent in the political and business life of the state.

The other state officers then took the oath and Governor Deneen delivered his inaugural address.

Governor Dineen, in his inaugural message to the legislature urged the necessity for a compulsory primary law, recommended the extension of the civil service to all state institutions, called attention to the necessity for the building of good roads throughout the state, and suggested that convicts in the state penitentiaries might be employed, at least in preparing the materials for roads.

Needed amendments to the labor laws were recommended, particularly in the matter of giving better protection to men engaged in dangerous occupations and to sanitary conditions.

HOCH INAUGURATED.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 9.—Edward Wallace Hoch, Republican, was today inaugurated governor of Kansas. He will not deliver his message to the legislature until tomorrow.

The other new state officers all of whom are Republicans also took the oaths of office. The ceremonies took place in the state house in the presence of an immense crowd, and were presided over by Eugene F. Ware, former commissioner of pensions.

INDIANA INAUGURATION.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 9.—The inauguration of J. Frank Hanly of Lafayette, as governor of Indiana took place today. The inaugural address of Governor Hanly was then read to the legislature.

FOLK IS GOVERNOR.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 9.—Promptly at noon Joseph W. Folk was inaugurated governor of Missouri. The ceremonies took place in the house of representatives which had been appropriately decorated.

Previous to the inauguration ceremonies Mr. and Mrs. Folk were guests of honor at a breakfast given at the gubernatorial mansion by outgoing Governor Dockery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan and thirty other guests, among them prominent Democrats and their wives, were present.

Governor Folk's address to the legislature was in part as follows:

Folk's Address.

"Partisanship is a good thing sometimes; but patriotism is a better thing all the time. Partisanship is well enough when it does not conflict with patriotism; but patriotism is a higher virtue than partisanship. Some of you are Democrats, some are Republicans, all are Missourians.

"In the discharge of official duties let us be Missourians before we are anything else. Do not forget that you will be aiding the party you may belong to most by giving the public the highest service. You cannot help your party by injuring the public. One may be in private life a Democrat or Republican, but when he steps into public office he becomes a public servant—a servant of all the people.

"When you come before the people to give an account of your stewardship, the account must be for public service and not for party work. Your party nominated you, the people elected you and sent you here to serve the public, and by that service you will reflect credit or discredit on your party. You are here as legislators, not as politicians, and the welfare of the state should ever be your first consideration. As to Corruption.

"If there be any corruption during this session of the general assembly it would be a disgrace to the state and a reflection on every man in this body, and upon every official in the state government. It is too often the tendency of good men in legislative bodies to close their eyes to things of this nature, satisfied with their own honesty, but forgetting that it is as much their duty to protect and defend the honor of the state as it is their own honor.

"The legislator who sells his vote traffics in the honor of a sovereign people which, if allowed to go on, is fraught with greater consequences.

MAJOR MONTGOMERY ORDERED TO COAST.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—An order was issued at the war department today by direction of the president relieving Major Benjamin E. Montgomery of the signal corps, now on duty as chief of the telegraph and cipher bureau of the executive office, White house, February 1 next, and ordering him to Benicia barracks, California, to assume command of company F, signal corps on the arrival of that company at that post from the Philippines where it has been stationed for several months past.

The order not only relieves Major Montgomery from duty at the White house but also has the effect of reducing him to the rank of captain. No reasons are assigned for the change, except that it was felt at the White house that the telegraph bureau ought to be directly under the control of the secretary to the president.

Assistant Secretary Rudolph Forster has direct charge of the bureau and will continue in charge of it. It is understood that no other officer of the signal corps will be detailed to the White house to succeed Major Montgomery. The latter has been granted four months' leave before assuming his new duties.

THE CONTEST.

If it is true that certain Republicans are trying to induce Governor Peabody to refrain from bringing a contest for the seat soon to be held by Alva Adams the best thing that can be said for them is that they have outlived their usefulness to their party. The fact that such a suggestion can be made now shows what a change has been brought about by events of the last four or five days. A week ago it would have been stamped and anybody with the temerity to make it would have been hissed down. But since the compromise with the renegades there are those ready to listen to a suggestion which carries with it dishonor to the party and to Governor Peabody.

Fortunately neither the Governor nor the leaders of the straight Republicans who have stood by him are of this kind. The contest will be brought and it will be pushed with all possible vigor. To do otherwise would be an ignominious admission of defeat and a lasting disgrace. Perhaps a sufficient number of the votes which constitute Alva Adams' majority can be shown to have been honestly obtained to entitle him to the seat, but we do not believe it. The frauds that have already been unearthed in Denver by the Supreme Court are the most outrageous in the history of a city known far and wide for the dishonesty of its elections. There is every reason to believe that when the investigation is extended to other wards and to other parts of the state enough more fradulent returns will be exposed to wipe out the majority of 9,774.

These are the facts as they now stand, and to ignore them; to permit Adams to occupy a seat tainted by fraud, without determining definitely whether the fraud is sufficient to disqualify him; to give up a prize which all fair-minded persons believe was honestly won, would be not merely idiotic but cowardly, contemptible and disgraceful as well.

The Senate has seated the two Supreme Court nominees and today the man who, on the face of returns largely falsified, was elected Governor of Colorado, will be sworn in. This disposes of the preliminary business before the legislature. Now let the contest proceed. There should be no haste, no half-hearted, slipshod investigation. Open the boxes, examine the registration lists, the poll books and the witnesses. The people of Colorado want to know once and for all time, who obtained a majority of the honest ballots cast for Governor on November 8. In the meantime Alva Adams must be regarded by the entire nation as a man who holds in his possession goods of questionable ownership.

A REPORT ON CRIPPLE CREEK.

Under the title, "A Report of Progress in the Geological Resurvey of the Cripple Creek District, Colorado," the United States Geological Survey has issued a pamphlet of thirty-four pages filled with interesting and valuable information relative to the world's greatest gold camp. It will be remembered that this resurvey, undertaken at the urgent request of Colorado mining men, was begun in June, 1903, and the field work was completed in April, 1904. Nearly every mine and prospect hole in the district was thoroughly examined and the achievement represents an immense amount of labor by the corps of men engaged.

To review the report in detail would require more space than can here be devoted to it. Two subjects of especial interest, drainage and the future of the district, may be quoted at length, however. Of the former the report says:

The conditions of underground waters are interesting and somewhat unusual. A dry climate and a heavy percentage of run-off minimize the annual additions to the underground supply. Nevertheless, the ground-water level is not unusually deep, and large quantities of water are encountered in all the mines below that level. The original water surface of the district in the volcanic rocks stood at elevations of 9,400 to 9,700 feet, or 100 to 600 feet below the surface of the ground. At first pumping was conducted by individual mines, but it was soon found that the radius of drainage had unusual length—that is, that one mine would drain others situated at a distance. Drainage tunnels were then undertaken, and the Chicago and Cripple Creek, the Ophelia, the Standard, and lately the El Paso tunnels were driven, each of which practically accomplished the drainage of a large part of the district almost down to its own level, thus showing that the ground water is limited in quantity and is more of the nature of a local reservoir than a "subterranean sea."

The plug of volcanic rocks which fills the throat of the old volcano is rudely circular, with a diameter of 3 miles. This mass is extremely porous, and is, moreover, cut in many directions by partly filled fissures and sheeted zones, so that water can circulate within it with comparative freedom in several directions. It retains this character down to the greatest depth yet reached. On the other hand, the surrounding granite is relatively impermeable and is less traversed by open fissures. No doubt it contains ground water down to a depth of 2,000 feet or more, but in very much smaller quantity, and the circulation of this water must be extremely slow. This is clearly shown by the fact that the water in the breccia is not drained by Cripple Creek and Arequa Gulch below the level of the points where they leave the volcanic area. Thus the volcanic plug resembles a water-soaked sponge inserted in a hole cut in an impermeable substance. The drainage of the mines is thereby greatly facilitated, as it is not necessary to extend the tapping tunnels to each mine.

The El Paso tunnel, completed in the winter of 1903-4, has an elevation of 8,730 feet at the portal. Within a short time it effectually drained not only the Beacon Hill mine but also the Gold Hill mines, and its influence extended even to the Last Dollar and the Elkton mines. But the foregoing statement in relation to draining the district must be so modified as to exclude a certain part on the eastern side, comprising the mines about Independence on the east side of Bull Hill and those on Battle mountain and in the town of Victor, in which the effect of the El Paso tunnel is slight. The Findley Hull City, Vindicator and Golden Cycle mines about the town of Independence seem to occupy a separate drainage basin, probably divided from the main area by masses of relatively impermeable rock.

The Portland, Stratton's Independence, and the other mines near Victor occupy another drainage basin. Of these the Gold Coin and the Stratton's Independence have shafts below the level of the El Paso tunnel and their pumps have probably drained the surrounding territory to a considerable extent. The influence of the drainage tunnel on the Portland mine is a question upon which opinions differ.

The subject of the drainage of the Cripple Creek mines has been actively studied in late years, and valuable contributions to the subject have been made by Mr. Victor C. Hills and others, who have shown that the water can be tapped, without prohibitive expense, down to an elevation of 7,500 feet, or 1,300 feet below the El Paso tunnel; for this depth a tunnel three and a half miles long would be needed. On account of the great porosity of the rocks it is not probable that the next thousand feet below the El Paso tunnel level will show any great diminution in the amount of water stored in the rocks.

In discussing the future of the Cripple Creek district the compilers of this report acknowledge the difficulties which confront anybody, however well he may think he understands a particular mining district, who attempts to predict its future. However their conclusions are interesting:

To predict the future yield of any mining district is no easy task; the conditions under which most ores are deposited are as yet too imperfectly understood, and the deposits themselves are usually too erratic in form and distribution, to give certitude to such predictions, even when these are based upon a careful study of the history and present condition of a district. Nevertheless, it is part of the duty of the geologists who have officially investigated the Cripple Creek district to interpret to the best of their ability the bearing of ascertained facts upon future mining development. For such a forecast of the future moderate probability is all that can be claimed.

As has been pointed out in the preceding pages, the largest known ore bodies of the district are apparently confined within a zone which extends from the surface to a depth of 1,000 feet. In general, explorations below that depth have been much less satisfactory, as regards quantity of ore, than explorations above. It is certainly true that some large ore bodies as yet show no sign of depletion in depth, and that some good pay shoots have been found at a depth of 1,400 to 1,500 feet. On the other hand, the number of ore shoots that have been exhausted with increase in depth is considerable.

It is probable that the ore bodies, known or unknown, occurring below the 1,000-foot zone are neither so large nor so abundant as these nearer the surface. The discovery and exploitation of these deeper ore bodies is, moreover, beset with increasing difficulties, chief among which is the problem of dealing with the underground water. For these reasons it is unlikely that the zone between the 1,000-foot and 2,000-foot levels will yield as much as the zone between the surface and the 1,000-foot level, but the possibility is not denied that some strong fissures may carry payable ore to far greater depths than those yet attained.

As regards the zone above the 1,000-foot or 1,500-foot level, it is well to bear in mind that it still contains much ore, both as parts of known ore shoots and as yet undiscovered ore bodies. It is certain that many of these undeveloped ore bodies will be mined in the near future and that this zone will contribute the most important part of the production.

It is probable that the production of the district, while exhibiting fluctuations, will on the whole slowly decline. New ore bodies will undoubtedly be discovered from time to time, and individual mines may be as profitable in the future as they have been in the past, or even more profitable. An increased output may be expected to follow each successful step in deep drainage. But existing conditions indicate that if the maximum production of $18,000,000, in 1900, is to be surpassed the increase will be due to the ore bodies encountered in the upper zone.

For the last four years the public has been told by disappointed mining men and numberless engineers and "experts" that Cripple Creek "is played out." And yet new discoveries of ore are made every month, both in the old mines and in localities where paying values were not suspected a few years ago. Of course it is inevitable that the production "will, on the whole, slowly decline." If it didn't Cripple Creek would be an exception to all other mining camps, but there is no reason to believe that the period of decline has begun, or is likely to begin in the near future. Cripple Creek today is producing gold at a rate that far distances any other single camp in the world, a distinction it will probably enjoy for many years to come.

BEET SEASON CLOSED AT FOWLER.

This week closed the shipments of sugar beets to the Rocky Ford and Sugar City factories. There have been shipped from Fowler to Rocky Ford 4,244,520 pounds of beets and to Sugar City 782,260. In addition to this there were shipped from Elder, two miles east of here, 3,459,610, which makes a total of 8,486,380 pounds. At $5 per ton, it will be seen that the farmers in the vicinity of Fowler received as compensation for their beet crop this season a total of $21,215.95.—Fowler Tribune.

A PLUME FOR THE WESTERN CAP.

A prominent Brooklyn preacher lately told his congregation of New York business men that the seat of power in the United States no longer rests in the east, but has passed to the west; that the really big things of the age are now done by western men, and that unless the east shall raise itself from self-complacent dreams and open its eyes to facts, its relative influence in the nation will continue to diminish.—Salida Mail.

LEADVILLE WINS DISTINCTION.

Leadville captured two of the prizes awarded to Colorado exhibitors at the St. Louis exposition, according to the official list of Colorado prize winners, and strange as it may seem, in view of the fact that this is the greatest mining camp in the state, if not in the world, neither of the prizes was awarded for a mining exhibit. The only apparent reason for not bringing one or more of the mining prizes to Leadville was that Leadville mines did not have an exhibit at the fair. The Leadville public schools, which are accounted as ranking with the best in any state in the union captured both the awards. A gold medal was awarded to the collective exhibit of the Leadville and Colorado Springs schools. A bronze medal was awarded for the exhibit of the elementary department of the Leadville public schools.—Leadville Herald-Democrat.

NEW AND NOVEL INVENTIONS

TO MAKE PLUMP CHEEKS.

It seems marvelous that there should be ever encountered anything but a pretty woman when one contemplates all the various processes exploited for the purpose of effecting magic-like transformation of a homely chin, crooked nose or other ill-shapen facial feature, and likewise the endless array of beauty balms, complexion masks, skin foods and preparations warranted to remove wrinkles, freckles and other blemishes.

The man who can restore the bloom of youth and rounded outline to a faded cheek will get all the work he can handle, and the latest piece of apparatus which has been suggested for the purpose is shown herewith. If you should come suddenly upon a female acquaintance displaying two hornlike things sticking from her mouth you may conclude that she is undergoing the newest process for plumping her cheeks.

CHEEK DISTENDER.

The device made use of consists of a pair of metal arms with two of the extremities filled with rubber pieces, conforming substantially to the shape of the cheeks. This is thrust into the mouth and under the cheeks and when distended to the utmost is locked in that position and allowed to remain there as long as convenient. The inventor of this device claims that there is no further excuse for a sunken cheek, and that a woman may defy the attacks of time by simply making use of the machine, which keeps the flesh of her face as firm and rounded as that of the 16-year-old girl.

ILLINOIS BELL WITH A HISTORY

Was Cast in Spanish Foundry in the Sixteenth Century—The Silver in It Gives a Rich Tone.

The famous old bell of the Roman Catholic church in St. Joseph, Tazewell county, again "tolls the knell of parting day" after being temporarily silent following the transfer from the old edifice to the new one recently dedicated. The bell has a remarkable history, and has had many owners. For forty years it has been the property of St. Joseph parish, ringing out the hour of weddings, of masses and of funerals, without distinction. The age of the bell has been variously estimated between 200 and 300 years. It is but a trifle larger than the ordinary locomotive bell, but the metal contains a certain proportion of silver which not only gives it a peculiarly sweet tone, but also one of great strength, so that the sound is heard from one end of the township to the other.

According to an inscription upon the bell, it was cast in a foundry at Vallidolid, Spain, early in the sixteenth century. The bell was conveyed to Vera Cruz, Old Mexico, by monks, where it hung in the cathedral until the Mexican war in 1847. When Vera Cruz was captured by the United States army, three young men of Company G, Fourth Illinois Infantry, which was recruited in central Illinois, captured the bell and sent it home. Their names were Second Lieutenant W. A. Tinney, Sergeant J. M. Gill and Sergeant Samuel Rhodes, all of Pekin. The same trio captured the famous wooden leg of General Santa Ana, now in the museum at Springfield.

After reaching Pekin the bell was sold to the owner of the Prairie State, an Illinois river steamboat, and was carried between Peoria and St. Louis for five years, until April 15, 1852, the Prairie State, while racing with the steamer Avalanche, blew up opposite Pekin and went to the bottom, with heavy loss of life. The bell lay at the bottom of the river for two years, when it was fished out, and the finders sold it to the Methodist congregation, who were about to dedicate a new church. From 1854 the bell hung from the tower of that church, until 1867, when the Catholic people of St. Joseph decided that the historic and Catholic associations of the bell were sufficiently important to warrant its restoration to that faith. They asked the Methodists to set a price, and the latter willingly gave the bell for the price of another, which was of less value from an historic standpoint.—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE OPENING OF THE SEASON.

A young man entered his employer's office with nervous steps and downcast mien. "I regret to inform you, sir," he faltered, "that a near relative of mine departed this life yesterday morning, and the kick-off—I mean the funeral, sir," he hastily added, stammering over the frightful mistake—"will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock precisely. May I absent myself from the office for an hour or two, to pay my last respects to the dear departed?"

"Certainly, Brown—certainly!" exclaimed the generous employer, in an unusually enthusiastic tone of voice. "And, by the way," he added, "there will be another regretful ceremony at the end of the week. Business is dead—at any rate, as far as you are concerned—and the kick-off—I beg your pardon, I also mean the funeral—will take place at the moment you have drawn your salary. There is no necessity for me to mention the name of the dear departed in this case, I believe," he finally said, as poor Brown sadly sneaked away.—Birmingham (England) Post.

CHINESE WOMEN WORK AS COOLIES

In Some Districts of China Women With Children Strapped to Them Work on Railroad Gangs.

The first contract for five mile sections on the Canton-Hankow line was sublet by the Chinese contractors to various lesser contractors who were generally the heads of families or communities, says Justin Burns in Engineering Magazine. These subcontracts for 300 or 400 feet of embankment were taken at a certain unit rate which was sufficiently low for the general contractor to realize some profit from the work. The sub-contractor utilized all members of his community or family to fulfill his contract, and often not only men, but women and children filled the borrow pits. It was a common sight to see gangs of laborers composed entirely of women, many of whom worked with their infants strapped to their backs. It might be interesting to state that the women coolies formed more efficient and less troublesome earth laborers than the men. The inciters of strikes and labor riots seemed to have less effect upon these unfortunates.

The rice fields are of dark blue clay, which overlies the rock to a depth varying in this delta country from twenty to fifty feet. Where the ground was moist and the clay tenacious, the material in the borrow pits was cut by spades into blocks, each containing about a quarter of a cubic foot. These blocks were transferred to the embankments in various manners which depended upon the ingenuity or desire of the subcontractors. On the low embankments it was usual to place coolies in rows extending from the borrow pits to the embankments, and to toss the blocks of clay from hand to hand until placed in the construction. Another method which proved economical was to lay planks from the borrow pits, and by posting workmen along these boards at short intervals the blocks of clay were slid on the wetted planks until finally placed in position in the fill. Then again sleds drawn by the coolies over roadways of wetted clay, were used to transfer large loads of blocks to the embankment. When the clay contained a certain percentage of sand the blocks did not retain their form sufficiently to permit tossing or sliding, and in these cases baskets suspended at the ends of bamboo shoulder poles were in general use.

The Chinese contractors on the Canton-Hankow railway practically completed their embankments contract, but it was necessary to take the bridge work out of their hands and complete these structures under foreign foremen supervising native laborers. In the case of the embankments, it was not difficult to obtain coolies who had been skilled in the handling of clay in constructing and repairing the innumerable dikes which filled the country. With these Orientals the element of time never seemed to be thoroughly understood, and, generally speaking, no contractor ever paid any regard to the completion of his work at the time promised.

Much has been written in praise of the Chinese characteristic of faithfully fulfilling a contract or business obligation in the spirit and letter of the agreement, even though there were no written evidence of a promise and even though the transaction would involve pecuniary loss to the Oriental. It is to be regretted that this railway work in South China cannot substantiate this much-quoted and praised characteristic. It may have been that the Chinese builders were reared in a different school in business ethics from the merchants; the railroad contractors were certainly thoroughly grounded in the fine arts of equivocation and scientific dishonesty of action and intent.

A MISER'S FARM.

Is Full of Gold, but Nobody Can Locate It Exactly.—Some Located in Creeks and Buried Tin Cans.

An inquiry into the sanity of Micajah Chamness, an aged citizen of Madison county, by his prospective heirs, has developed some peculiar facts about his manner of life for the last ten years. He has been a recluse most of that time, refusing to communicate with anyone who came to his house and often absenting himself from his family for days at a time. On such occasions he slept in the woods or in the barn, cooked his own food, washed his own clothes at the creek and made companions of his horses and cattle.

Despite his eccentricities the old man was very prosperous. His farm is in what was once the natural gas belt, and he received large sums for leases. Then came the discovery of oil, and again the money flowed into his coffers. He dealt with the oil companies only on the basis of royalties, and after a while began to sink wells of his own, but though it was known that he was getting very rich, none of the money that ever came into his hands was ever accounted for to members of his family. An investigation was begun, and it was learned that the recluse had no bank account nor could anyone discover what became of the money received in royalties after it reached his hands.

Search was made about the stable, house and garden when the old man was away, and here and there small sums were found, some put in cracks about the barn, some in the woodshed, some in tin cans in the garden and some between the rafters under the house. But the amounts ranged only from $10 to $20, and it was evident that the bulk of his treasure had not been found.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

DISUSE OF WHIPPING POST.

Notwithstanding the advocacy now and then of the rehabilitation of the whipping post, that form of punishment is losing rather than gaining ground in the civilized countries. It is now inflicted in England and in only a few cities of the continental countries of Europe. In the United States it is used only in Delaware and Maryland. And perhaps it still obtains to some extent in Australia. The punishment is not inflicted upon women in England, Delaware or Maryland.

In England there is an increasing reluctance on the part of the judges to inflict the punishment.—Law News.

NUTRITIOUS PROPERTIES OF COMMON RICE.

Admirable Diet for Persons of Sedentary Habits.—A Tissue Builder. Easily Digested.

The efficacy of rice as a principal factor in the regular diet of those whose employment makes great and constant demands upon their physical strength and endurance has been shown in the preceding numbers of this series. It has been proved by the testimony of the ablest students of the chemistry of foods and their adaptability to the body's uses, the recognized authorities on the subject, the savants in the employ of the United States government, which has a department especially devoted to research and experiment therein, that (1) the body's needs require that seven-eighths of the food consumed shall furnish heat and power; that (2) the most satisfactory food is that which shall provide these with the least tax upon the system, more especially the digestive organs, and consequently the least expenditure of energy, and that (3) rice in a greater degree than any of the foods in common use meets all requirements.

But the reader must not be misled into the belief that it is a food suited only to the needs of those whose employment demands what is commonly accepted as physical effort. "Commonly accepted" might in this case be truthfully termed a commonly erroneous conclusion, since the brain-worker makes perhaps an even greater draft upon his physical strength and staying power than the average man engaged in manual labor. In these days, the latter works eight or ten hours, and the constant movement of his limbs and torso, and the ever-changing play of his muscles give the exercise that assists him to burn up even foods ordinarily difficult to digest, rapidly circulates his blood to feed and renew the remotest parts of his physical being, and leaves him at the end only healthily tired. But the brain-worker, who sits in a more or less constrained attitude, leaning over the office desk or library table, scarcely changing the position of body or limb for hours, his sole active bodily effort the pushing of pen or pencil or the turning of the leaves of book, or ledger, of page of statistics or accounts, stopping through the long hours that reach far into the night only to snatch a hasty meal, the while his mind is intensely, absorbingly engaged—he knows what real exhaustion is. The deadly weariness or cramped muscles scarcely fed by a sluggish circulation, and the "fag" that comes to the brain from too long continued and often too one-themed—if the expression may be allowed—employment, make him acquainted with it in its uttermost degree. For it is not only bodily weariness, weariness that results from long sitting in a constrained position, he, whose work is mental, suffers that really is the least cause of his physical exhaustion. Atwater says that, with every thought, material—and mainly the material that furnishes heat and power—is consumed, and that such is the case with feeling as well, meaning that the impulse is given to each by and through an actual movement of some part of the brain itself. Now, the task set the brain usually falls upon one set of nerves and vessels, since mental work is largely the following up of one theme for the time being, and the strain is heavy in direct ratio to the length of that time, and the strenuosity of the thoughts and feelings—it is the "twanging upon the one string" that wears it out. And when that one point of attack calls for reinforcements—it may not ask for rest—in the shape of fresh material for its reinvigoration, what too often results? Why, the worker "stops to get a bite," a meal of some ill-combining foods, that can neither furnish material in the right proportion, nor be digested under three and a half hours. And does he wait until this is digested ere resuming his task? Not by any means—"can't spare the time." So he, having halted his food, races back to his work and wonders why he feels so heavy, why his mental machine works so haltingly, so like an engine with an inadequate supply of steam. And that's just the trouble; for three and one-half hours the stomach is demanding that steam—the blood which is seeking to convey the reinforcing material to the brain—wherewith to do its work, work on which not only the brain but the whole physical economy depends. A little rice, a little lean meat, and some of the legumes easily converted by the stomach into the one-eighth of muscle, and tissue building and renewing, and the seven-eighths of heat and power furnishing material, would have permitted him to resume his labors almost immediately, and without the meal acting as a brake on his mental powers so like the boa that, having gorged himself, must sleep, would not have to put his mind "out of commission" for a good portion of his waking hours, that his stomach might quite unobtrusively perform the work necessary to keep the whole system in repair.

The Somali women put myrrh with water into a bottle, which, on being well shaken produces a lather that they use as a dentifrice for the teeth. The Abyssinians, when they go elephant hunting, anoint themselves with this gum or a solution of it, as it is supposed to keep the elephants from attacking them, possibly on account of the odor.

MUSIC IS GOOD FOR HEALING THE SICK

Physicians Recommend It for Many Puzzling Cases — Soothes the Nerves.

It appears that Chicago physicians do not believe in the curative properties of music. Dr. Francis S. Kennedy, of Brooklyn, has broached the theory. Indeed, he attempted a demonstration not very long ago, and declares that the result was exceedingly significant. Twenty trained nurses were invited to his residence where he received them seated at a piano and playing with great energy. He gave a spirited interpretation of "Annie Laurie," rising from that through successive layers of excellence until he got to Siegfried's single combat with the dragon. The guests were examined from time to time and the doctor found marked variations in their pulses. From this he deduced his theory that the action of the heart can be influenced and the temperature of the body raised and lowered in this way, and soon afterward announced a fixed belief in the therapeutic agency of music.

As we say, however, the faculty of Chicago do not take kindly to the Brooklyn hypothesis. Individuals give different reasons, but they seem thoroughly agreed on the general proposition. Dr. Harold N. Moyer, for example, who is a noted specialist in nervous diseases, rejects the Kennedy idea with something like disrespect. He admits that music often fatigues him. "I am all worn out," he says, "when Siegfried's death song has been sung. I am tired physically." He can neutralize the effects of the more violent Wagner music by going out and consuming large quantities of beer and cabbage at the nearest station. "But," as he feelingly remarks, "this proves only the depressing tendency of some kinds of music and the exhilarating qualities of beer," etc.

F. J. G. Kiernan confesses that there may be something in it, but does not see how the remedy can be practically applied. "Only the rich could afford a brass band or an orchestra when indisposed," he declares, and even then, in his opinion, very few doctors would know how to arrange a really effective programme. If musicians were called in, they would inevitably get by the ears over the rival schools of music. Nearly every bandmaster thinks his brass instruments can give the prelude to "Lohengrin" better than a regular orchestra, while those maestros who still believe that Wagner knew how to arrange his own scores do not hesitate to say that the other fellows are red-handed Philistines. On such an issue the horn-blowers and the fiddlers would promptly come to hostilities, and while the police were removing them from the sick chamber the family doctor would fill the patient full of pills.

Frankly, this Brooklyn theory does not appeal to us. We are free to confess that the present system is not perfect. There must be some more wholesome agencies of relief than calomel, squills, morphine and ipecac, or, at least, some more enlightened method of employing them; but we are not ready to admit that biliousness will yield to piano music more readily than to blue mass, or that a banjo quartette is better for toothache than an application of cocaine. Music is a mighty good thing in its place, but we do not think the bedside of the sick is the place for it. A man wants to feel mighty fit when he faces the average brass band. As for Wagner, he ought to train for it as he does for a fight or a foot race. Just what kind of music is good for the suffering and the feeble we cannot undertake to say. It seems quite clear to us, however, that the family practitioner had better stick to his boluses for the present.

And this is what he will doubtless do.—Philadelphia North American.

OPERA IN AMERICA.

The first question asked by the average American operagoer on the approach of a new season is, "What singers have been engaged this year?" After that he may express curiosity as to the works which the singers are likely to interpret. It would be absurd for the director of an institution like the Metropolitan Opera house to affect ignorance of the popular attitude toward lyric drama. In the interest of art he may regret it. In many ways, no doubt, grand opera, as we know it here, is infinitely finer, more brilliant and more satisfying to our own public than anything to be found in Europe might be. But, except as to the singing, it is not ideal, in the same sense as grand opera in Vienna, under the direction of Mahler may be called ideal.—Heinrich Conried, in Leslie's Monthly Magazine.

LESTER McLEAN IS CHOSEN SECRETARY OF THE Y. M. C. A.

Graduate of Colorado College Chosen Last Night by Board of Directors to Succeed W. H. Day. Well Known Here.

Lester McLean has been chosen general secretary of the Colorado Springs Young Men's Christian association to succeed W. H. Day, resigned.

At a meeting of the board of directors last evening C. S. Ward, international secretary of the Y. M. C. A., presented the name of Mr. McLean and it was decided to extend him a call to the secretaryship. Mr. McLean is well known in Colorado Springs, having graduated from Colorado college with the class of '99. Since his graduation he spent one year as assistant secretary of the Denver association, several months studing association work at the New Haven, Conn., Y. M. C. A., and two years as traveling secretary of the student department of the international Y. M. C. A. He is now in California conducting a student conference of the Pacific coast. Mr. Ward telegraphed him the news last evening and it is expected that he will begin his work in this city February 1.

Mrs. McLean is also a graduate of Colorado college and is well known in Y. W. C. A. circles. She was one of the leaders in the Y. W. C. A. convention which was held at Colorado college last week and is now visiting friends in this city.

Mr. McLean had intended to take up foreign Y. M. C. A. work in Japan but the death of his father in Denver last month made it impractical to leave his mother for so long a period. Lester McLean, Sr., was one of Denver's most prominent lawyers and a member of the state Y. M. C. A. committee.

At the directors' meeting last night it was decided to start a subscription list for the raising of the $40,000 building debt. It is hoped that the debt will be raised before Mr. McLean takes charge of the association.

An interesting fact developed at the meeting last night in regard to the membership. There are now 998 paid up members of the association. Mr. Ward says that Colorado Springs has a greater membership than any other city of its size in the United States with one exception.

IS COMMITTED WITHOUT BAIL

THE CASE OF HENRY COVINGTON, COLORED, ALLEGED MURDERER, SET FOR HEARING ON JANUARY 14.

Henry Covington, the negro charged with the fatal shooting of Winnie Adams, colored, at the Carlton coal mine last Wednesday, was taken before Justice McClelland yesterday on a coroner's warrant. The justice set the hearing for January 14, and the prisoner was committed to the county jail without bail.

CLARK RELEASED ON $4,000 BOND

PROPERTY OWNERS URGED TO INVESTIGATE THEIR TITLES TO COLORADO CITY AND MANITOU REALTY.

Bond in the sum of $4,000, satisfactory to Sheriff O. P. Grimes, having been furnished by H. B. Clark, charged with complicity in the alleged real estate swindles at Colorado City, the defendant has been released from the county jail. This leaves only "Red" Gibson and Harry Crawford still in the county jail, they having been unable so far to give bail.

The examination of the alleged swindles involving properties in Colorado City and Manitou is being continued. While this investigation is in progress it is urged that every person who owns or thinks he owns any property in either of these cities, and especially every non-resident, make immediate examination of his title and ascertain whether his property has been involved in the [illegible] frauds. This also applies to every loan association and to every person who has loaned money upon properties in these places.

HOLMES FACES A NEW CHARGE

RE-ARRESTED ON COMPLAINT FILED BY DISTRICT ATTORNEY ALLEGING A STATUTORY CRIME.—HEARING TODAY.

The case of the People vs. William Holmes was called up for trial in the court of Justice Ruby yesterday. The complaint charged the defendant with kidnapping Edith Shelley, the 17-year-old daughter of W. J. Shelley. After hearing the testimony in the case Assistant District Attorney J. J. Black moved to dismiss the case and at once filed a complaint charging the defendant with a statutory crime. The testimony in the first case showed that the defendant spent Saturday night, December 31, Sunday and Monday night with the girl in a Huerfano street rooming house. The new complaint was at once sworn to by the father of the girl and a warrant was immediately issued for the re-arrest of the defendant. Bond was fixed at $1,000 on the new charge and the case was set for hearing on Friday next.

JUDGE J. A. ORR RECEIVED GIFTS

PRESENTED WITH GOLD WATCH AND INKSTAND ON HIS RETIREMENT FROM THE COUNTY BENCH.

An interesting incident occurred in the court room of the county court yesterday afternoon, immediately after the adjournment of court, which marked the conclusion of the service of Judge James A. Orr upon the bench. At 3 o'clock the members of the board of county visitors and the office force of the court entered within the enclosure for attorneys. H. M. Mason addressed the judge and in behalf of the office force presented him with an elegant solid gold watch. The Rev. Dr. Gregg then addressed the court and presented a handsome cut glass inkstand with solid silver mountings. Judge Orr was taken entirely by surprise and it was some time before he could express his appreciation.

Judge James A. Orr will engage in the practice of law and has secured offices at suite 311-314 Mining Exchange building, where he will be assisted in the office work by H. M. Mason, former clerk of the court.

The prizes will be awarded at the annual patriotic celebration of the order in the High school auditorium on Washington's birthday.

The Zebulon Pike chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution has announced that its annual prize to the senior history classes will be awarded as in former years. The best student in American history will receive $5 in gold and the second best will receive $3 in books.

JUDGE LINDSEY WILL LECTURE

FAMOUS FRIEND OF BOYS COMES AT INVITATION OF SCHOOL BOARD AND SCHOOLMASTERS' CLUB.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey, known the world over for his work in the juvenile court of Denver, will address the citizens of Colorado Springs next Friday evening in the High school auditorium. He will discuss particularly manual training and its relation to character building, but will probably touch on other phases of his juvenile work. At the close of his address an opportunity will be given for asking questions.

Judge Lindsey comes to Colorado Springs this time at the invitation of the board of education and the Pike's Peak Schoolmasters' club.

The second meeting of the Schoolmasters' club will be held Friday, and this address will take the nature of an open meeting of the club. The members will meet at the Alamo hotel at 6:45 o'clock in the evening for the dinner and transaction of business, later adjourning to the High school auditorium where the lecture will begin at 8 o'cock.

CITY HALL NOTES

Building Inspector Young yesterday issued a permit to A. Wasserstrom for the erection of a frame residence containing eight rooms and bath at 816 South Nevada avenue, to cost $2,200.

Water was shut off yesterday from several houses because they did not bear the official street number. There are still a few residents who have not complied with the ordinance in this respect, and instead of having them brought into police court and fined, the department turns off the water.

In the police court yesterday Judge Hammond imposed a fine of $10 and costs upon Phil Stinger and J. W. Roy, both for being intoxicated.

CLOSES A YEAR OF PROSPERITY

MEMBERS OF FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH WILL HOLD JUBILEE MEETING JANUARY 18.—REPORTS SHOW STEADY GROWTH

The First Baptist church closed a prosperous year on December 31, 1904. In his Sunday morning sermon, the pastor, Dr. Edward Braislin, made the report to the congregation for the year 1904. During the year, 73 persons have been added to the membership, bringing it up to 739, more than double the number at the beginning of his pastorate. The year closes without debt; $8,316.54 has been raised and expended, $2,053.50 of which was for benevolences. The church property has been improved by a cement sidewalk on its street fronts at a cost of $350.

The Sunday schools of the church and the Woods Memorial chapel number upwards of 500 scholars under 60 teachers and officers.

The Christian Endeavor society is not surpassed by any in the city and large congregations have uniformly greeted the pastor, who has not been absent from his parish except to meet other public engagements during the year.

The church does many kindly deeds of charity, for example, 500 bottles of grape juice and hundreds of newly-made garments have been distributed to sick and poor within and without the membership.

The church has secured Dr. Charles G. Woolsey, a distinguished baritone of Philadelphia, as choir master and is assured of attractive music during the coming year.

A banquet and roll call will assemble the members on Wednesday, January 8, which will be a time of reminiscence and rejoicing.

CITY WINS TWO CASES

COUNTY COURT UPHOLDS VERDICT OF POLICE COURT.—DISTRICT ATTORNEY C. C. HAMLIN BEGINS DUTIES TODAY.

In the county court yesterday the case of the City of Colorado Springs vs. Loubach was called up for hearing on the defendant's motion for a new trial. The court denied the motion and entered judgment for the plaintiff on the verdict for $45. Judge Orr further ordered that the judgment be suspended during good behavior upon payment of the costs in the case. The defendant was recently fined in police court for creating a disturbance.

City of Colorado Springs vs. Shaw, fined in the police court for selling oleomargerine without its being properly labeled, was called up on defendant's motion for a new trial. The motion was denied and judgment entered on the verdict for the plaintiff for $15. The court further ordered that the judgment be suspended pending good behavior upon payment of the costs. City Attorney Sheafor filed exceptions in both cases to the suspension of the fines by the court. This case was appealed to the county court on August 20, 1902, from the police court.

The criminal calendar will be called in the district court this morning at which time cases will be set for trial at the January term of court. C. C. Hamlin will make his first appearance in court as prosecuting attorney for this district, and will be assisted today by Henry Trowbridge, the outgoing district attorney.

The jury in both the civil and criminal divisions has been instructed to report for duty on January 16.

Judge Robert [illegible] will be on the bench in the county court and will call the docket at 10 o'clock a. m. Attorneys having cases ready for trial are requested to be present.

The case of Ernest L. Hall vs. the Colorado Midland Railway company was called up before Judge L. W. Cunningham in the district court yesterday on demurrer of the defendant to the second amended complaint. The demurrer was argued and sustained and the plaintiff was allowed to amend by interlineation.

MANY TO ENTER PUBLIC SCHOOLS

OPENING OF SECOND SEMESTER IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS MEANS MANY PROMOTIONS TO HIGH SCHOOL.

From the present outlook, it is expected by Superintendent Dietrich that several hundred new pupils will enter the first primary grade of the public schools at the opening of the second semester on Monday, January 23. About 100 pupils will be promoted from the eighth grades into the High school. Four young women will receive their diplomas.

Short written tests in the different grades of the ward buildings are being given this week and these will be followed by tests from the principals. Next week will be devoted entirely to examinations at the High school. The pupils will receive their report cards on Friday, January 20. It is expected that there will be a few changes in the assignment of teachers. The necessary new supplies have been ordered by Secretary Maris and will be here in time for the new term.

Miss Laura A. Leech, principal of the Bristol school, has been detained at her home in Winterset, Iowa, since the Christmas vacation by the sickness of her mother. Miss Margaret Erwin, of the sixth grade is acting as principal, and Miss Elisabeth Groh is taking her place. Miss Etta Fairfield of the Columbia school, has also been detained by sickness and Mrs. G. A. Seymour is substituting for her.

FORMER SPRINGS MEN ARE PROSPEROUS

Judge L. W. Cunningham of the district court, returned Saturday from Greeley where he has been hearing the will case in the estate of Henry Currier. The case involves $200,000 and has been in the courts since 1897.

Judge Cunningham found business in the northern portion of the state in a very prosperous condition. H. C. Casner, a former resident of this city, is conducting a hardware store and is doing an excellent business. Mr. Wolf, formerly circulator on the Evening Telegraph, but recently connected with the Greeley Tribune, has purchased the controlling interest of the Tribune and now has a handsome new office building.

William S. and H. C. Fortson formerly in business in the south end, are now conducting a large furniture and queensware store in Ft. Collins and are prospering.

The sugar beet is mainly responsible for the great prosperity which that portion of the state is enjoying and the residents are well satisfied with their investments.

Full Settlement of Difference Between Morning Glory and Mary McKinney Is in Sight. Rests With Howbert, Finley and Chase.

Special to the Gazette.
CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 9.—There is liable to be a settlement in a very few days now, of all the litigation pending between the Morning Glory M. & M. company and the Mary McKinney in which the former established an apex of the rich ore shoot and are now asking one million dollars damages for the ore alleged to have been taken out by the Mary McKinney company and there is little doubt but that a settlement will be made in this city Thursday.

The suit was recently tried before the federal court in Denver at which time the Morning Glory established its right to the apex. However, the amount of the damages was not determined at that time so by stipulation three well known mining men have been appointed to determine what the amount of damages should be. These three men are C. W. Howbert, manager of the Anchoria-Leland company, operating in this district; J. R. Finlay, formerly manager of the Portland and Conundrum mines on Battle mountain, both well known mining experts, and E. E. Chase, a well known mining engineer of Denver.

The three experts are on the property now taking measurements of the different stopes from which the ore was removed and as they go along making calculations as to the value of the ore removed. Their decision will be rendered next Thursday to the federal court in Denver and it is believed that with this decision the Mary McKinney company will be satisfied, pay the damages called for thereby ending one of the largest mining litigation cases ever brought in the district that would otherwise be taken to a higher court.

The Morning Glory M. & M. company owns the Anchor claim located on Guyot hill situated just above the Mary McKinney property and the winning of this suit will place the Morning Glory company in a fine financial condition. At the same time it will not be a very large matter to the Mary McKinney people as their ore bodies have been proving much better of late which has enabled them to have splendid large bodies blocked out waiting to be shipped at any time that they see fit.

ANOTHER RICH EL PASO STRIKE

SECOND OF THE NEW YEAR IS REPORTED — BELIEVED TO BE C. K. & N. EXTENSION MEASURES FIVE INCHES IN WIDTH.

Special to the Gazette.
CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 9.—The El Paso mine, the bonanza of Beacon hill, again comes to the front with a second fabulously rich strike made since the first of the year.

Ore has now been encountered at a depth of 800 feet. The body is believed to be the extension of the C. K. & N. vein and while the core measures but five inches in width yet the center of this for about an inch in width is practically solid sylvanite. However, the five inches return extremely high values and for several feet on each side of this rich streak the ore can all be broken down together and will return very good smelting grade values.

Every one connected with the company is extremely elated over the last find as it not only means more ore but it proves that continuity of the shoot for 100 feet and shows that the same vein runs from the surface to the depth of 800 feet and no telling how much further. However, it is pretty convincing that the ore shoots from this little hill are extending with depth and it is not a pockety proposition as experts classed it in the early days.

OLD SPINNEY MILL IS NOW DISMANTLED.

Special to the Gazette.
CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 9.—The old Spinney mill, one of the first plants erected in the district for the treatment of ore, has been completely dismantled; nothing is left standing but the foundation of the old tanks. With the demolition of this mill it closes the career of all the earlier mills of the camp as every one has been destroyed in one way or another and have made way for more modern methods which are now proving so successful for the treatment of Cripple Creek ores.

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies, and rest for tired, fretted mothers, in warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, and purest of emollients, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent.

"My niece's little baby boy, two years old, was so badly afflicted with eczema that he needed constant watching. It was all over his face and he scratched the sores constantly. Mornings his clothes would be stained with blood, and his face and hands would be covered. His family never could take him out, as his face was always full of large sores. They had medical treatment, and tried everything they heard of. She commenced using the Cuticura Remedies last spring and found that at last she had a wonderful healer. The sores left his face and he was entirely cured, and now his face is as smooth and rosy as though no sore had ever been there to mar it."

AMUSEMENTS

"THE MUMMY AND THE HUMMING BIRD."

The best play presented here last season was "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," and those who saw it pronounce Paul Gilmore the best actor that was here during the season. Both this play and star will again appear at the Opera house on next Saturday. Lord Lumley is the best part Paul Gilmore has ever been seen in. Mr. Jules Murry, his manager, has again surrounded him with a company of artists and has given the play an entirely new scenic equipment of great excellence. His success this season, which by the way will be his last in this play as arrangements have already been concluded for a new vehicle for him for next season, has been phenomenal everywhere, and capacity attendance will undoubtedly rule here.

THE BONNIE BRIER BUSH.

An important event in local theatricals is coming to the Opera house next week of that sterling portraiture of Scotch home life, "The Bonnie Brier Bush." This play is one of the few enduring book dramatizations and is always thoroughly good. The story of "The Bonnie Brier Bush" has been cleverly adapted to stage purposes and is strongly imbued with that heart interest and dramatic intensity indispensible to plays of this kind, while a delightful vein of comedy predominates the entire performance. J. H. Stoddart is still heralded in his masterful portrayal of the stern old Scotch shepherd, Lachlan Campbell, and Reuben Fax continues as the tippling post-carrier of Drumtochty. The supporting company is said to include many notable players.

MISS HOPPER IN "A COUNTRY MOUSE."

Edna Wallace Hopper, dainty and delightful, at the head of her own company, under the direction of Frank McKee, comes to the Opera house this evening appearing in "A Country Mouse," a comedy by Arthur Law that met with well merited success in London for two seasons.

In this comedy Miss Hopper represents a country mouse of a girl, Angela Muir, nibbling at the cheese of city society, and seeming not to know one grade from another, while really aware of all the flavors between mild, new dairy and strong old Stilton. Those familiar with Miss Hopper's charming comedy methods will readily comprehend how the demure Angela, without saying a word convinces one that she can find her way about London with safety. That she fooled a smart coterie into mistaking her decorum that of a dunce, is all very amusing. In fact, she is said to be the loveliest of little rogues.

The story runs that Angela is introduced to some society men and women at a titled lady's house in town. She appears to believe everything that she is told and to have never heard anything like it before. The men, charmed by her real innocence and pretended ignorance, slight the bolder belles to pay court to the maiden with the prattling lips and astonished eyes. They lead her into any number of amusing complications, but the country mouse rescues herself from them with charming grace and rural simplicity. All these things are set forth by the brilliant author in a vein of satirical comedy that is at once both witty and diverting.

INCREASING EASE IN MONEY MARKET

ANIMATION MARKED OPENING OF SECOND WEEK IN YEAR. WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCES BEING WATCHED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The second week of the new year in the stock market started off with some animation and brisk advances were scored pretty generally. But the start proved a false one, and most of the first week of the year and interest had almost completely died out by the afternoon. It was apparent that the movement represented very largely a trial of speculative sentiment on the part of the professional operators and the restless class of traders who are nursing disappointment on account of the failure of outside interest to develop in the market. The incident from which most was hoped for providing effect on trading was the outcome of the conference of political party leaders held in Washington on Saturday afternoon. The current reports regarding this conference were without official sanction and varied considerably in their details. But they were generally agreed that it had been decided that it would not be feasible to act during the present session on the subject of corporate legislation. Wall Street is peculiarly sensitive to this subject and showed evidence of more contentment over this prospect of delay than of dissatisfaction over the reported decision to hold an extra session of congress in the fall to act on tariff revision. Last week the halt and the reaction in the market were attributed to a considerable degree to the influence of the threat of the legislation to regulate corporations. The inference of the professional traders that the sellers of last week on this account would turn buyers on the new situation was natural but proved to be ill-founded. The disappointing bank statement of Saturday was little regarded in view of the increasing ease in the money market.

In Rock Island time table.

FORECASTS WERE RULING FACTOR

COLD WAVE PREDICTIONS MADE STRONG DEMAND FOR WHEAT. KANSAS AND NEBRASKA HAVE WINTER ON THE BILL.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Cold wave predictions brought out an active demand for wheat today, resulting in sharp advances. At the close the May option was up 1⅝.

With the exception of a short period of uncertainty immediately after the opening sentiment in the wheat pit the market was decidedly bullish. Influenced by firm cables and by a liberal decrease in the amount of breadstuffs on passage the market was firm at the opening, May being up ⅛ to ¼ at $1.15⅝ to $1.15¾. The situation in the northwest, however, was apparently less bullish, arrivals today showing a considerable increase over recent receipts. As a result of the freer movement there was fair scattered selling by commission houses. Offerings were not readily taken and in consequence prices received a slight set back, May declining to 115¼. Later news from the northwest became more encouraging to bull traders, an excellent demand for cash wheat, especially of the lower grade being reported at Minneapolis. On active covering by shorts prices became bouyant. A decided source of anxiety to shorts was an official forecast for a cold wave in Kansas and Nebraska where the winter crop is said to be insufficiently protected by snow.

WHIST AND INVENTING.

Here is an incident, illustrating how business problems pursue the inventor of the air-brake, writes Theodore Nevin in the January World's Work. A few years ago a game of whist was progressing smoothly, when after one of the deals Mr. Westinghouse did not pick his cards up, but kept drawing on a piece of paper before him. The others watched him curiously, remarked that they were ready to proceed, and then waited and waited, unable to understand why he should pay no attention to them. Suddenly with a flash of triumph in his eye and exultation in his voice he cried out, "Brown, I've got that natural gas-meter fixed—here it is; it cannot fail to work successfully," and picking up his cards he asked, "Whose turn is it to play?"

Four Hundred Babies.

St. Vincent's Infant Asylum, Chicago, shelters homeless waifs awaiting adoption, and there are nearly 400 babies there. Sister Julia writes: "I cannot say too much in praise of Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough." Contains no opiates and is safe and sure. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and insist upon having it, as it is a safe remedy and certain in results. Refuse substitutes. For sale by Hefley-Arculerius Drug Co.

NOTHING LIKE IT
[illegible] TELEGRAPH [illegible]
Office temporarily on second floor.
119 EAST PIKE'S PEAK AVENUE
The only complete job printing office in the city, fitted with typesetting machines and [illegible] us, as don't have to give one to the other fellow.

The crowd continues to pour into The Telegraph Job Rooms and if you are not in "the push" you are out of luck. That tried true and always reliable printery is still taking care of the crowd in the good old way and at the same old stand, though the office is temporarily moved to the second floor, to permit repairs on the first floor. But you don't have to go to the office, call up the man at Phone 79—he enjoys "hurry up" orders.

A PLEASED CUSTOMER IS THE FIRST CONSIDERATION. We want to give you our first consideration. If you've tried it you know; if you haven't you've missed much.

BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY

Children of St. Mary's Parish Become Members of the Society of the Children of Mary.

The reception of the children of St. Mary's parish into the Society of the Children of Mary Sunday was one of the most interesting religious events witnessed in this city for years. The time for the ceremony was 7:30 o'clock p. m., but long before that hour many were present to secure seats in the church.

The altars were beautifully decorated with cut flowers and plants and the flickering tapers and many colored lamps formed a picture that made a pleasing impression.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Father Lenkart, of Manitou, and was listened to with the closest attention. He dwelt at length upon the virtues of Christ's mother and exhorted his hearers to be faithful imitators of Mary. After the sermon the medals and badges were blessed and conferred by the Rev. Father White, the director of the society.

The children did what was required of them in a manner which elicited the praise of the congregation. They answered all questions and read the acts of consecration in a way that could not be excelled. The evening's exercises closed with the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

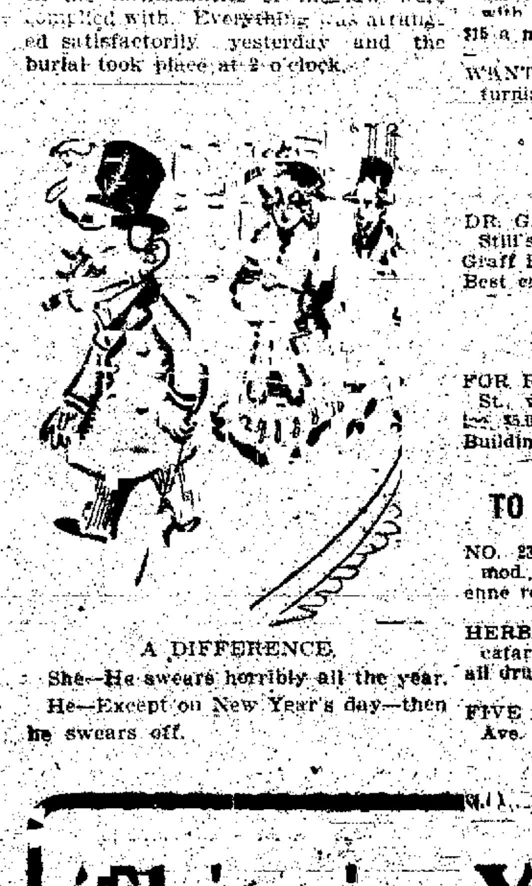

The officers of the society are: Miss Jean Rhodes, first prefect; Miss Ethel Schroeder, second prefect and organist; Miss Eva Eastwood, assistant and prefect; the Misses Maggie McGuire and Maggie Nugent, consultors.

The officers of the boys' division are Wm. Eastwood, prefect; Ralph Lawrence and Edward Martin, assistants.

The Rev. Father Raber, pastor of St. Mary's church in Colorado Springs, was present and expressed his gratification for the excellent training of the children and the interest manifested by the people.

FUNERAL OF MISS RODERICK TOOK PLACE YESTERDAY.

Failure on the part of Dr. J. F. Willard to give a satisfactory cause of death in the certificate, delayed the burial of Miss Mary Roderick 24 hours. While Dr. Willard gave the cause of death in the certificate it was not explicit enough to meet the printed requirements of Dr. C. E. Cooper, secretary of the state board of health in Denver, and there was nothing left for Dr. C. S. Morrison, city health officer, to do but to refuse the burial permit until the technicalities of the law were complied with. Everything was arranged satisfactorily yesterday and the burial took place at 2 o'clock.

A DIFFERENCE.

She—He swears horribly all the year.

He—Except on New Year's day—then he swears off.

ADMITTED SLAPPING MISS RANKIN'S FACE

Justice of the Peace Albert Allen yesterday pleaded guilty in Justice Faulkner's court to a charge of slapping Miss Mabel Rankin's face some time ago, and was fined $10 and costs, which he paid.
